

Manufacturer of Corset Fabrics

BMC is the last remaining manufacturer of corset fabrics in the Benelux and one of the few still operating in Europe. Following the acquisition of our former supplier in 2024, we have continued this specialised craftsmanship in-house. Thanks to local production, we combine consistently high quality with short lead times and extensive technical expertise.

Our corset fabrics are used by orthopaedic companies and bandagists, corsetry and lingerie manufacturers, fashion houses, and costume workshops serving the theatre and opera industries. For these markets, we have developed three fabric types :

- a) Corset Fabric : 100% cotton; 360 g/m²; available in cream, nude, black and grey
- b) Lining Fabric : 100% cotton; 260 g/m²; available in cream, nude, black and grey
- c) Broché Point : 95% cotton 5% viscose; 360 g/m²; available in cream, nude, black and white (Broché is also referred to as 'Jacquard'; it is a fabric with a woven-in decorative pattern).

Where centuries of craftsmanship take on new form

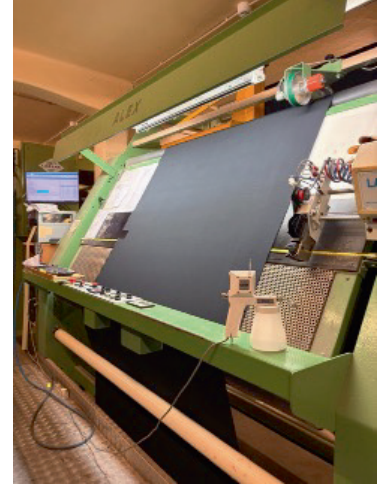

In the 14th and 15th centuries, the economic heart of Europe beats in the Low Countries. Cities such as Bruges, Ghent, and Ypres were global players. Their reputation rested on a single product : woolen cloth or drapery. Flemish drapery found its way to royal courts, trading cities, and markets far beyond Europe. The trade in this fabric brought unprecedented prosperity and transformed the Low Countries into a hub of innovation and craftsmanship.

Today, more than six centuries later, that same spirit lives on. BMC is the last remaining manufacturer of corset fabrics in the Benelux region and one of the last in Europe. In a world where mass production and speed often take precedence, BMC remains firmly committed to precision, expertise, and continuity. Like the medieval drapery, corset fabrics are no ordinary textile products.

They must shape and support, offer durability, and—at the same time—look refined. This requires a unique combination of technical expertise and textile know-how — a craft mastered by only a few today.

Just as the medieval drapery laid the foundations for a thriving European economy, BMC today forms an essential link in a niche market where quality is paramount.

BMC and Dirame Ortho launch partnership for the orthopaedic sector
